

Group 6 presents	Lin, J., & Chang, H. J. (2009). Should Industrial Policy in developing countries conform to comparative advantage or defy it? A debate between Justin Lin and Ha-Joon Chang. Development policy review , 27 (5), 483-502.
Group 8 discusses
Group 5 presents	Fine, B. (2010). Can South Africa be a developmental state. Constructing a democratic developmental state in South Africa: Potentials and challenges , 169-182.
Group 2 discusses
Group 9 presents	Barbieri, E., Pollio, C., & Prota, F. (2019). The impacts of spatially targeted programmes: evidence from Guangdong. Regional Studies , 1-14.
Group 10 discusses
Group 4 presents	Dunford, M., & Liu, W. (2019). Chinese perspectives on the Belt and Road Initiative. Cambridge Journal of Regions, Economy and Society , 12 (1), 145-167.
Group 7 discusses
Group 1 presents	Barbieri, E., Di Tommaso, M. R., Pollio, C., & Rubini, L. (2020). Getting the specialization right. Industrialization in Southern China in a sustainable development perspective. World Development , 126 , 104701.
Group 3 discusses	